

Three Ways to Get Students Started on Studygram

A quick guide for schools to choosing the right onboarding method for your students.

Choose the best onboarding pathway

1 Add Students Directly

Add students to Studygram yourself from your school dashboard - either one at a time, or all at once for a whole class or year level.

- 1 Click + New Test on your Dashboard and enter the student's name and email - best for adding a handful of students, or one-off sign-ups during the year.
- 2 Or use Bulk Upload to add a whole class or year level in one go: download the template, fill in your student list, and import the spreadsheet.
- 3 Once tests are created, either email students yourself from within the dashboard one-by-one, or select multiple students and select Email Selected to send the invitation email to each student automatically.

REQUIRES

Enough available credits for the number of students you're adding - one credit per student.

2 Cohort Self-Registration

Let students register themselves using a shared class or year-level code - ideal for larger groups or when you don't want to enter each student manually, or prefer students to enter their own preferred email address.

- 1 Create a Cohort from the Cohorts page (e.g. "Year 10 2026").
- 2 Copy the Cohort registration link and the Cohort code, and share both with your students - e.g. via email, your LMS, or a notice on the board.
- 3 Each student visits the registration page, signs up with their own email and password, and is automatically registered against that Cohort.

REQUIRES

Your school to have available credits - each self-registration uses one credit from your school's balance.

3 Wonde Sync

COMING SOON

For schools that already use Wonde to manage student information, Studygram will soon be able to synchronise your student data directly - no manual entry or spreadsheets needed.

- 1 Connect your school's Wonde account to Studygram.
- 2 Student data syncs automatically from Wonde into your Studygram dashboard, kept up to date each year.
- 3 Email Studygram invitations out to synced students directly from your dashboard, the same as with directly-added students.

STATUS

In development - we'll be in touch when this is available for your school.
